Emily E. Byers, PA-C, is an experienced Physician Assistant with a strong background in cardiology and cardiothoracic surgery. A graduate of Marywood University's Physician Assistant program, she has completed extensive clinical training across multiple specialties, including emergency medicine, critical care, vascular surgery, and thoracic surgery. Her early training with Geisinger helped shape her comprehensive, patient-focused approach to care. Emily has spent much of her career serving patients in both cardiothoracic surgery and cardiology, most recently as Chief Physician Assistant at North Penn Cardiovascular Specialists. Her work includes conducting detailed evaluations, managing complex cardiac cases, assisting in advanced procedures, coordinating post-operative care, and guiding patients through testing, treatment plans, and long-term management. She is also experienced in REMS program management for specialized cardiac medications and serves as a preceptor for PA students.

Emily brings strong clinical judgment, excellent communication skills, and a passion for guiding patients through every stage of their cardiac health journey. She maintains certification through the NCCPA and holds advanced training in ACLS, BLS, and Da Vinci Xi first-assist techniques.
