Dr. Haitham Abughnia is a board-certified cardiologist with extensive training in cardiovascular disease, internal medicine, nuclear cardiology, and echocardiography. He earned his Master of Science in Cardiology and Diploma in Clinical Cardiology from Imperial College, University of London, and his Doctor of Medicine from the University of Al-Fateh Medical School.

With more than a decade of experience in patient care, Dr. Abughnia has served as a cardiologist and attending physician with North Penn Cardiovascular Specialists since 2013. He is also a dedicated educator, serving as volunteer faculty for The Wright Center for Graduate Medical Education, where he trains future cardiologists.

Dr. Abughnia is now seeing patients at both Mid Valley Campus and Barnes-Kasson Hospital, providing compassionate, expert care to help patients manage and prevent heart disease close to home.
