Sal Giglio Joins Wayne Memorial Health Foundation

Sal Giglio

Wayne Memorial Hospital is pleased to announce that Salvatore ("Sal") Giglio has joined the staff of the Wayne Memorial Health Foundation. Sal, a longtime member of the Honesdale area community, assumes a newly-created post as Development Officer. In this role he will help the Foundation fulfill two of its purposes to develop relationships and raise funds that support and assist Wayne Memorial Health System in its mission of service to the community.

"I have always been an advocate for Wayne Memorial Hospital and what it has accomplished for the community and what it will accomplish going forward. Having joined the staff just a short time ago, I have already been greatly enlightened—there is unbelievable technology and superior medicine here!"

Sal was well known in his last position as the Sales Manager for Owl Chrysler Jeep in Honesdale from 1977 through 2008, when the dealership closed. Prior to that, Sal held management positions at Sullivan's Department Store in Middletown, New York and at Fidesta Corporation in Huntington, New York.

Mr. Giglio has a long history of community involvement. He is currently a board member of the Wayne County Public Library, past president and current board member of the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Finance Committee of St. John's Catholic Parish in Honesdale—to name a few organizations. No stranger to fundraising, Sal serves on the Bonanza Committee for the Lions Club. The "Bonanza" is the club's largest—and most successful—annual fundraising event, one of the area's most popular dinner dances.

"Sal was an asset to our Foundation before he joined our staff, and even more so now that he's with us," said G. Richard Garman, executive director of the Foundation. "Almost as soon as he came on board, we garnered a large number of new sponsors for our annual golf tournament, The Harry Kiesendahl Memorial held at Woodloch Springs, this year on Monday, August 20th. Sal brings a wealth of experience, contacts and goodwill to our organization. We are delighted that he is a member of the Wayne Memorial team."

Born in New York, Sal attended Adelphi University and moved to Wayne County 38 years ago. He and his wife Judy reside in Beach Lake. Sal can be reached at his office telephone 570-253-8344.

WMH Offers Fall Workshops

COPING WITH GRIEF: For the past year, Wayne Memorial Hospital's Hospice Department has been offering six-week workshops designed to provide education, support and coping with the grieving process. The workshops are held in the spring and fall. They focus on grief as a normal part of an individual's life's journey.

Facilitator and Licensed Social Worker Neil Petrosky said the workshops encourage participants to explore their own solutions to the challenges of living without their loved ones and dealing with the many changes that follow a loss. The workshops provide a safe place in which individuals can sort out which activities and time tables are right for them. The workshops encourage participants to trust their own judgment and explore healing strategies which work best for them.

The workshops are offered free of charge and co-facilitated by Reverend Debra Dailey, a hospice chaplain and the pastor of Lakeville United Methodist Church.

Participants are asked to complete a registration form, which can be found at www.wmh.org or by contacting Petrosky at (570) 253-8608. He is also available for questions about the fall workshop, which got underway in September, and the spring workshop. A grief support group is also offered the first Thursday of each month.

"LIVING WELL WITH DIABETES" CLASS: For more than 10 years, WMH Certified Diabetes Educator Carol Kneier, MS, RD, LDN, CDE has been helping diabetes patients manage their disease—and "live well." That's the title of her course, "Living Well with Diabetes," a three-session class held at Wayne Memorial Hospital throughout the year.

According to the American Diabetes Association, close to 26 million Americans have diabetes—about 8% of the population.

Carol covers many topics, including a basic understanding of the disease, the benefits of exercise and the role of food in diabetes management, menu planning, label reading, glucose monitoring and good care from head to toe. The classes run on three consecutive weekday evenings, usually from 5:30-7:30pm. The cost is $50 for a participant and a support person. Financial assistance is available.

"Learn more about managing this disease and how you can help prevent further complications," says Kneier, "Diabetes doesn't have to control you. You control it."

For information about the next class, contact Carol Kneier, MS, RD, LDN, CDE at (570) 253-8149.

SUPPORT GROUPS AT WMH: Diabetes "108 Club", Grief Support, MS Support Group, Survivors of Suicide Support Group—and more. Visit wmh.org/community/services/calendar of events for more information.

Scholarship Help for Future Nurses

Four local high school graduates received nursing school scholarships administered by the Wayne Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and The Honesdale National Bank. Trina Reese and Ariel Brooks, both members of the Honesdale High School Class of 2012, were awarded Ernest and Margaret Lemnitzer scholarships. The young women will share $9,382 over eight semesters. “It will really help,” said Trina, who plans to attend Bloomsburg University this fall and hopes, at this point, to be a pediatric nurse. Co-recipient Ariel starts at Mansfield University this year and is considering nursing in an Emergency Department. Two other scholarships, from the Victoria T. Robinson Scholarship Fund, went to Emily Favaro, a Delaware Valley High School graduate, and Brianne Kravetsky, who graduated from Hancock Central High School in June. Each will receive $1300. Emily is headed to Bloomsburg University; Brianne to Marywood University. NEW MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF IMAGING SERVICES—Wayne Memorial Hospital welcomed Timothy J. Farley, MD, a board-certified radiologist, to its medical staff this summer as the new Medical Director of Imaging Services. In this role, Dr. Farley will provide medical leadership and clinical oversight across all aspects of the Imaging Services Department. He most recently served as Medical Director of Imaging at Marian Community Hospital in Carbondale prior to its closure in February, 2012. "I chose to come to Wayne Memorial because of my desire to stay in the local area and serve the same community," stated Dr. Farley. "I am hoping to expand the availability of interventional procedures performed at the hospital."

The sixth annual Harry Kiesendahl Memorial Golf Tournament was held on Monday, August 20, 2012 at Woodloch Springs Golf and Country Club. Approximately 120 golfers teed off at 12:30 p.m. after receiving a warm welcome from John Kiesendahl, president and chief executive officer of Woodloch Pines, representing the Woodloch family, and instructions from Golf Director John Pillar and Jared Cottell, head golf professional. The course was in superb condition but not for long.

The Hospital had been blessed with 30 plus consecutive years of favorable weather, never having to cancel the tournament or suspend play. However, for the second consecutive year rain caused the suspension of play. In 2011, the golfers were drenched by a hard steady rain and the course closed after nine holes of play. This year, most golfers completed 12 or 13 holes of play before several showers with the threat of more to follow caused concern. It was thought wise to call the players into the clubhouse to dry off and enjoy the renowned Woodloch hospitality. The Woodloch staff quickly shifted gears and served their delicious all-you-can-eat steak bake, complete with jumbo shrimp cocktail.

After dinner Lee Oakes, board chair of Wayne Memorial Health System, offered words of praise and thanks to the golfers and guests. As executive director of Wayne Memorial Health Foundation, I was privileged to add more words of appreciation for the overwhelming support from the tournament's 76 sponsors, the largest number in the history of the event. The second highest number of sponsors was 55 in 2011. This year, the tournament raised $42,000, the best tally ever in the history of the event.

Jared Cottell and I, assisted by members of the hospital's community relations department, distributed the course prizes. A complete list of winners follows and also appears on the Foundation's website (<http://www.wmh.org/wmhf>).

Biology Class Visits WMH

Members of Honesdale High School's Advanced Biology and Advanced Placement Biology classes and their instructor, Rebecca Rowe, visited Wayne Memorial Hospital in late May prior to their graduation. The advanced biology program prepares senior students who are contemplating pursuit of a Bachelors Degree in one of the sciences such as biology or chemistry. The advanced placement students after completing that program are eligible to take a final examination which some colleges accept in lieu of taking the actual course offered by the college. Students can earn up to three credits at many U.S. colleges. The students viewed the hospital's advanced technology at work in the Laboratory and Imaging Services departments where they were hosted by Managers John Romano and Rob Brzuchalski. The students also toured the Good Shepherd Inpatient Rehabilitation Unit where they observed physical therapists, occupational therapists and speech therapists working with patients to restore physical and cognitive function. The students also toured the hospital's Central Supply area. The advanced placement biology program includes 12 weeks of micro-biology. Observing what occurs in the hospital's Central Supply area enabled the students to witness what they learned in the classroom at work in a real life application.

Judy Eisenhauer, RN served as the host in the Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Unit while Sandy Menotti provided the tour of Central Supply. Donna Decker, RN and Jean Tuttle of the Community Health Department, Jim Hockenbury, director of Ancillary Services and Rich Garman of Wayne Memorial Health Foundation served as tour guides. Following the tour, the hospital's food service department served a luncheon in the David Katz Conference Center where Dr. Louis O'Boyle, Chief Hospitalist, spoke to the students about practicing medicine in a rural area and the development and growth of a hospitalist model of inpatient physician care. Also speaking with the students was the hospital's CEO, David Hoff. Many of the students are interested in pursuing careers in medicine or science. Wayne Memorial Health Foundation played a significant role in the start of the advanced placement biology program at Honesdale High School by purchasing the books for the initial class and much of the equipment for the classroom laboratory. The program was initiated in the fall of 2007.

New Officers for WMH Medical Staff

Wayne Memorial Hospital's medical staff has a new president, David Caucci, MD (left) and vice president, Scott Epstein, MD (right). The two physicians flank William Dewar, MD, WMH Chief of the Medical Staff.

Dr. Caucci, a board-certified orthopedic surgeon, steps up from his position as vice president and replaces outgoing president Robert Dohner, DO. Dr. Caucci graduated from the University of Scranton and the State University of New York at Syracuse College of Medicine before completing a residency at Boston University and a fellowship at Emory University in Georgia. Dr. Caucci joined the Wayne Memorial staff and started in his practice, Honesdale Orthopedics, in 2001. Today, his practice is part of Wayne Memorial Hospital. Dr. Epstein, a board-certified specialist in rehabilitative medicine (physiatrist), completed his medical training at Temple University following his undergraduate years at the University of Pennsylvania. He completed his internship at Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia. Dr. Epstein practices with Northeastern Rehabilitation Associates, which serves many hospitals and rehabilitation centers in northeast Pennsylvania. He is currently the medical director for the Wayne Memorial-Good Shepherd Inpatient Rehabilitation Center at Wayne Memorial Hospital and has been on the active staff at the hospital since 1995.

Rehab & Recreation Open House at Wayne Woodlands

Imagine “virtual” rehabilitation services, slot machines, a pool table, and the sights and sounds of the ocean or the rainforest. Now, imagine them all...in a nursing home. Wayne Woodlands Manor, a 121-bed skilled nursing facility in Waymart, showed off recent expansions of its recreational and rehabilitation services to the community on Friday, August 24th.

“Our facility is home to a variety of age groups, many of whom have grown up in a world of innovative technology and recreational pursuits more sophisticated than some of the games we used to play,” said Marion Swencki, RN, NHA, administrator, “With their encouragement and help, we have installed a host of new activities.”

Wayne Woodlands now has a “Relaxation Room,” complete with music and peaceful scenery, and new game equipment in an expanded Recreation Room. The facility also enhanced some of its shower rooms with a “Tuscany” theme and a “Beach” theme. Some of the new features were underwritten by a $10,000 donation from the Wayne Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

“Our residents are more than pleased,” said Swencki, “and we are very grateful to the Auxiliary for thinking of them.”

The staff also demonstrated “virtual rehabilitation” at the open house, a kind of interactive therapy. Physical or occupational therapists guide patients through special exercises and activities in a computer-generated environment. “Many of our patients exercise longer with this therapy,” said Swencki, “because the video itself distracts them from everything else and engages their attention longer.”

For more information, call (570) 488-7130.
