

Raymond Resnick, MD, FACC, FSCAI, General & Interventional Cardiology

Education and Training

- Board-certified in both interventional cardiology and cardiovascular diseases
- Medical Degree, State University of New York Downstate Medical Center, New York City
- Internship and residency, Beth Israel Medical Center, New York City
- Fellowship in invasive and non-invasive cardiology, Long Island College Hospital, NY
- Continued interventional cardiology training, West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, WV

Dr. Raymond Resnick has been practicing interventional cardiology since 1993. He joined Honesdale Cardiology in 2015. He is the Medical Director of the Heart and Vascular Center at Wayne Memorial Hospital, a state-of-the-art cardiac catheterization lab where he performs both diagnostic and therapeutic treatments, including Percutaneous Coronary Intervention (PCI) or angioplasty with stenting. Additionally, Dr. Resnick offers holter monitoring, EKG interpretation, M Mode and 2-D echocardiographic interpretation, Doppler interpretation, pharmacologic and exercise stress testing, pacemaker insertion, balloon pump insertion, and trans-esophageal echocardiography (TEE).