As a Licensed Professional Counselor, Tim enjoys working with adults of all ages especially those suffering from long-term mental health concerns such as bi-polar disorder. He utilizes a combination of Psychodynamic and Rational Emotive therapy-- finding it effective for treating depression and anxiety which are the two most common concerns in mental health.

Tim joined Wayne Memorial Family Health Centers in 2019. He describes himself as a person who “loves to laugh and really believes it is the best medicine.” He has a wide variety of interests from aviation to music and art.
