Recommendations made by a Blue Ribbon committee on which Frank served were prominent in the Sarbanes Oxley bill passed by Congress relating to Corporate Finance and Governance. Frank was appointed by former Federal Reserve Chair Paul Volker to the Interim Advisory Committee to improve internal procedures of auditing firms and was a member of the Financial Executives International (FEI) Task Force to improve Financial Management, Financial Reporting and Corporate Governance.

Frank has also been very active in a number of other organizations, including Chair of the New York and National Multiple Sclerosis Society, FEI, St. Thomas Aquinas College, Good Samaritan Hospital, Rockland Paramedics and Dominican College. In fact, St. Thomas Aquinas bestowed upon him an honorary degree of Doctor of Commercial Science.

Frank was a member of the first class of inductees into the FEI Hall of Fame, named a winner of CFO Magazine's 1999 CFO Excellence Award in the Mergers and Acquisition category and was named by Global Finance Magazine as one of the world's superstar CFO's.

Locally, he has been Chair of Lackawaxen EMS and the Woodloch Reserve Board and served as a member of the Finance Committee of BVM Queen of Peace Church in Hawley.

Frank and his wife Madlyn live in Woodloch Springs in Hawley. They have two adult children and six grandchildren.
